Currency Stabilization May Cause Adjournment Of Economic Conference

By Claude A. Jagger.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
London, June 19. —(AP)—With plans for currency stabilization at a standstill, unofficial advocacy of the adjournment of the world economic conference until this question should be settled was advanced today by representatives of European gold standard countries.

The French delegation, leader of the gold bloc, insisted that virtually nothing could be accomplished by the convolve until uncertainty over currency values were ended.

A month to six weeks was mentioned as the probable length of the suggested adjournment.

FORMER HEAD OF AMERICAN LEGION DIES

O. L. Bodenhamer Is Gas Explosion Victim

Shreveport, La., June 19.—(AP)—O. L. Bodenhamer, former head of the American Legion, died in a Shreveport hospital tonight of burns suffered in a gas explosion in the East Texas oil field near Henderson today. He was 40 years old.

After being taken to a Henderson hospital he was later brought here where further efforts were made to save his life by means of a "heat bath."

Mrs. Bodenhamer was with the former Legion head when he passed away. Physicians here announced that his entire body up to his chest was scorched by the flames.

The explosion was set off when Mr. Bodenhamer struck a match to light a cigarette in the oil field. He was about 150 yards from the nearest well.

Mr. Bodenhamer, a lease tender, who was with Bodenhamer at the time of the accident, suffered burns on his hands and face and was treated at a Henderson, Tex., hospital.

They were preparing to open the well after a three-day shutdown.

Mrs. Bodenhamer's clothing was burned from his body. Dr. Thomas J. Busi, his family physician, hurried to the Texas city immediately after the accident and had the patient removed to Shreveport.

The last emergency treatment consisted of placing Bodenhamer in the "heat bath" and giving him intravenous injections.

GOVERNMENT ENTERS WAGE CONTROVERSY

Joseph Eastman Will Confer With Union Officials

By J. H. Jenkins
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Washington, June 19.—(AP)—The administration today stepped into the railroad wage situation in an effort to bring about agreement between the carriers and their employees.

Joseph B. Eastman, coordinator of transportation acting "unofficially," will confer here tomorrow morning with representatives of railroad labor in regard to the wage situation.

The administration action was formally disclosed today through an announcement by Eastman.

"I shall confer tomorrow," said Eastman, "in Washington with representatives of railroad labor in regard to the wage situation."

"This will not be done in my capacity as federal coordinator of transportation, for the law gives the coordination no authority over wage controversies, but will be done unofficially in the hope of promoting results which will be in the general public interest."

The railroad union representative meeting in Chicago last week adjourned on Saturday to meet in Washington Tuesday.

There were indications that the union chiefs were requested by administration officials to come to Washington. At the same time an invitation was sent to W. F. Thibault, general manager of the Burlington railroad, who is chairman of the carriers' committee, for his committee to meet here at the same time.

The railroads last week notified the unions that on November 1, when the present agreement expires, railroad wages ten per cent expires, the railroads will continue the ten per cent and in addition impose another 12 1-2 per cent reduction.

Brotherhood officials immediately asserted that they would not consent to any wage cut and this afternoon at Cleveland A. F. Whitney, chairman of the railway labor executives association, renewed this assertion.

The Eastman move was understood to have been directed by President Roosevelt before he left last Friday on his vacation trip.

The Eastman move followed closely behind President Roosevelt's request that business houses refrain from further wage reductions and increase wages as rapidly as possible.

PROPRIETOR OF WISCONSIN CAFE SHOT AND KILLED

Police Believe Man Was Hunted Down and Slain By Gangsters

Kenosha, Wis., June 19.—(AP)—Four men today entered the Edgewater Cafe at Twin Lakes, 20 miles southwest of here, lined up eight employees and guests under cover of guns and escaped after the proprietor, Harry Robinson, 39, formerly of Chicago, was shot and killed.

The men entered the building shortly after noon and rounded up all the occupants of the first floor on the front porch. There one of the invaders forced them at the point of a gun to keep their hands over their heads while the other three men went to the second floor.

A moment later a volley of shots was heard and the four men ran to the rear of the building, and sped away in an automobile.

At the rear of the building Robinson was found dead, with five bullets in his body.

Robinson's wife, Florence, was among the eight held captive on the front porch.

Robinson came here recently from Chicago, where he had been the proprietor of a (Dearborn Plaza) Cafe.

While those who were under guard believed a robbery was under way, there was no evidence of anything being taken.

Chicago, June 19.—(AP)—Harry Robinson, 39, slain in a roadside near Kenosha, Wis., was known to police here as a companion of Terry Druggan, beer baron.

Robinson, formerly a municipal court bailiff, operated a saloon here until recently. Police said it was apparent that Chicago enemies had hunted him down and killed him.

Assembly Adjourns Without Taking Action On Horner's Two Percent Sales Tax Bill

By Milburn P. Akers

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—After passing two of the measures on Governor Horner's program, the House tonight became involved in a battle over a third and adjourned without taking action on the two per cent sales tax bill.

The two measures passed and sent to the senate were the housing bill designed for slum eradication and to aid in relieving unemployment, and the Chicago school board's non-referendum $40,000 bond issue.

Rep. Benjamin Adamowski, Chicago democrat, sought to force consideration of the governor's revenue measure which broadens the powers of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The bill, due to technical reasons, was not on the day's calendar and under the rules could not be considered. Several members objected to Adamowski's endeavor to bring about consideration of the bill.

Rep. John Davis, Dixon democrat, moved for adjournment. House members, tired after a four hour session in sultry weather, concurred with enthusiasm.

Whether administration leaders had refrained from calling the sales tax up earlier because they lacked votes to advance it to second reading without reference to a committee, could not be learned. Some of them claimed after the session tonight that they had intended to act on the bill. Others said the delay occasioned by the adjournment was intended.

Failure to pass the sales tax was a surprise as the House held its first Monday session in an attempt to finish work on the governor's nine-point program and the biennial appropriations within the next two weeks and permit sine die adjournment by July 1.

The Chicago school board would be permitted to issue $40,000,000 in non-referendum bonds under the bill passed 81 to 0. Bond revenues would be placed in the board's working cash fund in an attempt to meet the delayed payrolls for school teachers.

With only one hour left, the House passed and sent to the senate the Kalahar bill placing motor trucks and buses under the jurisdiction of the Illinois Commerce Commission, which would have power to fix rates. The vote was 78 to 12.

RICH BREWER IS RELEASED BY ABDUCTORS

Theodore Hamm Will Help Officers Run Down Kidnapers

St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—(AP)—A widowed mother's only son, the millionaire president of the Theodore Hamm Brewery Company, was released by kidnapers early today and immediately promised authorities to aid in bringing to justice his five or six captors.

For these $238,000,000 has been put aside to start building the navy up to treaty strength and $400,000,000 for grants to states for highway construction. The details are being worked out.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the navy disclosed that bids would be opened on July 26 for seventeen new ships to be built at private shipyards. In addition bids on four more destroyers will be opened nearly three weeks earlier, on July 6.

Plan Construction
At about the same time, Donald H. Sawyer, administrator of public works under the national recovery act, and his cabinet advisory committee went forward with their efforts to get the first of new construction under way next month.

The committee, headed by Secretary of the Interior, Harold I. Ickes, is now drafting tentative details of policy at a meeting today and the interior secretary said "as soon as we can get our organization set up we will begin turning loose the public works money."

Delegation after delegation called on Sawyer to present proposed plans to be considered by the committee to be financed under the authorization for the government to grant 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials.

Among these was a proposal by Ohio's adjutant general of a $400,000,000 program in that state, the first of the kind to be formally laid before the administration.

The naval construction program outlined under the $3,300,000,000 public works allotment, includes 32 ships, of which 16 will go to private shipyards. Open to private bidding also will be one cruiser previously authorized by law.

Under the program announced for 22 ships within the next three years, private contractors will get the two aircraft carriers and the four light cruisers. They will receive eleven of 20 new destroyers, leaving nine of 1,500 tons to be constructed by the navy.

In addition will be allotted half of the submarine construction, leaving two for navy yards. The navy itself also will build two gunboats of 2,000 tons each.

While the public works program was being worked out, Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, made a sudden trip late today to New York on an undisclosed mission. He intended to return during the night to be at his desk tomorrow.

Johnson and his corps of coordinators have been working to obtain trade agreements within the major industries to bring increased wages and decreased working hours for workers.

Reports to Johnson's office and from trade association meetings held in various sections indicate widespread cooperation. Johnson hopes to be able to begin hearings soon upon some of these agreements.

In Chicago codes setting up new standards of competition under the national recovery act were being formulated by two lines of business—the American and the Vegetable Shippers association and the Motor Equipment Wholesalers' association.

ANNA ROGERS DIES

Chicago, June 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Rogers, 79, a pupil of Mary Baker Eddy, and one of the early leaders of the Christian Scientists in Chicago, died here today. Burial will be in Mt. Carroll, Illinois where she was born, the daughter of Judge John Wilson, an associate of Abraham Lincoln.

MARTIAL LAW IS DECLARED IN GEORGIA

All State Property Affected By Order Of Governor

Atlanta, June 19.—(AP)—The Georgia highway department, the capitol and certain other state property were put under martial law today by Governor Eugene Talmadge, and civil suits growing out of his lengthy budget controversy with the highway board were ordered transferred to military courts.

The governor's action, taken shortly after his return to Atlanta from New York, followed by a few hours upon the action of highway officials in tying up by injunction more than $2,000,000 of highway funds, which the governor had ordered removed from banks and impounded in the state treasury under military guard.

The state treasurer and the comptroller general named defendants in today's action, were likewise put under martial law.

Adjutant General Lindsey Camp read the governor's order to J. W. Barrett, chairman of the highway department, ordered Barrett out of the highway building and took charge of the premises.

General Camp also ordered four of the five ranking highway engineers whose names were stricken from the department's budget by the governor, which action has been the bone of contention off the highway department's property.

A detail of 15 national guardsmen took charge of the building and General Camp said national guardsmen in various sections of the state would be put in charge of highway department property as fast as word could be sent out.

The highway department's operations were placed under Jud P. Wilhoit, of Warrenton, one of the three members of the highway board, which began April 1.

The chief executive declined to comment on his order. "It tells the whole story," he said.

Barrett denied allegations of the governor's order, and said he would stay in Atlanta and "fight for my rights."

The order said a "majority of the members of the highway board and the chief engineer have conspired to deliver the highway department of the law, and to set up a rival power against the lawful constituted head of the state by a conclusion and fraudulent attempt to have civil court interfere with the executive and administrative branch of government."

And they are attempting by use of unlawful means, by the enforced idleness of thousands of employees and convicts and by willfully refusing to pay the legitimate expenses of the laws to force the lawfully constituted head of the state to accede to their unlawful demands.

Barrett declared that he has brought about a condition of threatened insurrection and upheaval.

GERRY ALLARD IS DISMISSED FROM MINE EDITORSHIP

Insubordination Is Given as Reason For Editor's Discharge

Gillespie, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Claude Peary, president of the Progressive Miners of America, tonight announced that Gerry Allard has been dismissed as editor of the Progressive Miner, the union's official publication.

Insurrection was given as the reason for Allard's discharge, which is effective immediately.

Peary said the executive board of the union, which has been in session here several days, has taken steps to present its side of the Illinois coal diggers' controversy to General Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national industrial recovery act.

The Progressive Union seeks federal aid in the form of a dominant labor organization in the Illinois coal fields in plans to reorganize and stabilize the mining industry.

More than a dozen persons have been killed in central and southern Illinois during the last year in riots, shootings and bombings growing out of the bitter rivalry between the Progressive Union and the older United Mine Workers of America.

Peary said that recent charges that Allard was allied with communistic organizations had nothing to do with his discharge. The charges were made by Allard's brother and made public by opponents of the Progressive Union.

Allard was said by Peary to have refused to adhere to the expressed wishes of the executive board, which has control of the Progressive Miner.

SET HEARING DATE

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Hearing on a petition for liquidation of trust of the late Mary Louisa Collins estate was set for June 26 by the federal court here today. The delay was asked by the Millikin Trust Company of Decatur.

PHYSICIAN DIES

Ava, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Dr. John Bennett, 63, died of heart disease at his home today on his thirty-fifth wedding anniversary.

No Decision Reached By Jurors At Early Hour This Morning

The jury, in whose hands was placed the fate of M. F. Dunlap, former president of the Ayers National Bank, and W. G. Goebel, former cashier of the bank and former treasurer of Illinois College, yesterday afternoon at 5:57 p. m., was still discussing the case early this morning without having arrived at a verdict after eight hours of debate in their small room on the second floor of the Morgan county court house, where for five days they sat and absorbed the details of the alleged hypothecation of bonds belonging to Illinois College.

Bailiff C. Justus Wright, and a few court hangers-on, were the only persons who stayed through the early morning hours in the solitude of the court house, where yesterday oratory upholding and tearing down the two defendants indicted on criminal charges of embezzlement and larceny by bailie rang back and forth across the court room for seven hours.

No indication of what was going on in the jury room where the 12 men retired with the case, filtered through the glass door, and only occasionally was it possible to see a movement therein. No loud talking, no arguing, were heard by those who sat waiting the return of the verdict.

Jury Receives Case
The jury received the case from Judge L. E. Stone of Springfield, of the Circuit Court, who said he would remain in the city all night and was ready to receive a verdict when one was reached by the jury. The judge left to keep a dinner appointment immediately after handing the case to the jury, and after ordering a recess, the jurors were in their room for an hour after receiving the case and then were taken to a local restaurant where they ate supper. Lunch was ordered for them early this morning as they continued their deliberations.

No sleep was permitted the jurors last night, nor will they get any rest until tonight. They will be kept at their task until they reach a decision, or until they report to the court that they are unable to agree.

With Judge Stone remaining in the city, it will be possible to deliver a verdict at almost any time if the jury comes to a decision. The bailiff will notify the judge that the jury is ready to report, and at the same time notify the state's attorneys, and the defense attorneys. Attorney William St. John Wines and Attorney H. E. Fullenwider, of the defense staff, remained in the city all night in order to be on hand, if the jury came to a decision.

Delivers Ringing Address
In closing the arguments for the state, State's Attorney Wilfred Absher delivered a ringing address, severely scoring both M. F. Dunlap and Andrew Russell, and at the same time not letting the alleged crime committed by W. G. Goebel, Carl E. Robinson, assistant cashier, go unmentioned.

Assistant Attorney General Moley of the state department described Baruch's activities today to forestall, he said, unfounded speculation as to the nature of the New Yorker's work.

"The president has asked Baruch to advise various officials in an informal way at Baruch's association with the administration. They were particularly outspoken after two of the financier's close friends, Hugh M. Johnson and George N. Peek, had been named to administer the industrial control and farm relief program."

Baruch has long been a student and a writer on economic subjects, giving him wide familiarity with current questions. He has a thorough understanding of the president's views, which his own are understood to coincide.

Baruch has been a close friend and confidant of President Roosevelt since the days of the war when he served as an adviser to President Wilson. Since the present administration took office he has frequently conferred with the chief executive.

Congressional critics of some of the president's policies have expressed dissatisfaction at Baruch's association with the administration. Relief and Work

The city of Metropolis, Ill., has taken care of its poor during the past winter at a cost ranging from 97 cents to $1.28 per family per week. The highest cost was $1.30 per family of 3.8 persons. The Chamber of Commerce served as the administration center.

However, the significant thing about the program was not the low cost, but the fact that every able-bodied man whose family received relief was required to do two days work per week on the city streets. For this he received a grocery order of staple food, all clean and wholesome. Flour was supplied by the Red Cross, and clothing was also distributed by the same agency.

Morgan county has also been successful with the work project. Scores of men have been able to earn weekly relief for their families. William Casler, county highway superintendent, has organized the work program most efficiently, with the full support of the county commissioners. Much work has been done on the roads of the county.

If the $30,000 provided as Morgan county's share for secondary roads in the new Recovery act, is received, there will be more work for the unemployed. Two projects, the building of a 9-foot slab on the Sinclair road and the construction of an 18-foot gravel road from Woodson to Glenview, are planned. These projects, together with the general pickup in business and employment should soon absorb the county's labor surplus and put most of the families back into the earning class.

Father's Day

Sunday was Father's Day, and Dad really got some recognition this time. Radio programs were dedicated to him, and special services were held in his honor in many churches. It was no doubt a pleasant surprise for Father, who has been the focus of the monthly bills were passed around. Most fathers fulfill their obligations to their families quietly and modestly and do not expect much recognition. But it may be said with truth that one of the most priceless possessions of any young man is his companionship with his father. When a father finds time to be a pal to his boy, there is always a rich fruitage in the life of the boy throughout the years. As he grows to manhood and takes on the responsibilities of life, he finds many occasions to use the advice his father imparted, and many times is guided by his wise counsel.

Every boy wants to be like his father, who embodies in his young life all the ideals of manhood. Nobody can do things quite as well as Father can do them, and when Father is near, everything is bound to go right. Fortunately is the father, who because of his own good character and manly life, can retain this implicit confidence as his advances in years and himself becomes a man.

The good fathers of the world deserve high tribute. In their hands rests the character and fate of future generations. If they keep faith, the sons who follow them will carry on. And most of them do keep faith, which is why there is progress in this old world.

WILL ROGERS says:
To the Editor of The Journal-Courier:
Santa Monica, Calif., June 19.—So Father had a day yesterday did he? Where? But you figure it out and he didn't deserve any more of a day than he got, there is a lot of hue about poor Father being imposed on, dear old Father gets away with quite a bit of murder just because he is a father. If he has some outsider and pulled the junk he does they would chuck him in the alley. There is nothing outside of an economist that's been any more overestimated than a father. He is a necessity and that about lets him out.

VISITS JERSEY CO. TO ENFORCE GAME, FISH LAWS

Jerseyville, June 19.—District Inspector Fred L. Goodwin of Quincy, Ill., was in Jerseyville last week checking up on the enforcement of the game and fish code in Jersey county. Goodwin is attached to the Department of Conservation of the state and has under his supervision the counties of Adams, Scott, Pike, Calhoun, Jersey and Greene.

In company with Deputy Warden Cummings of Jersey county and Deputy Warden Adolph Casner of Pittsburg, Goodwin made a trip along the Illinois river south to Grafton for an inspection of fish nets.

A number of nets were found without licenses, the warden report, and the owners of the nets were given a final opportunity to comply with the law relative to taking out licenses. Inspector Goodwin assumed charge of his duties under the Department of Conservation the first of June. He was formerly chief deputy in the office of the sheriff of Adams county. Inspector Goodwin checked up on places of guilty taken before Justices of the Peace in the county where the fines have not been collected and ordered legal steps taken to immediately collect the same. He informed the local officials that violations in which the federal government has jurisdiction as well as the state would be turned over to the higher authority where the defendants failed to comply with the sentences imposed upon them by the lower courts.

Nets are determined to stop the shooting of ducks and other migratory water fowl out of season," stated Goodwin, "so far as we have ability to do so. The Department of Conservation has received numerous reports from this district relative to the violation of migratory water fowl laws. This is due to the fact that we are situated along the line of flight of ducks in the proximity of the river and there is more opportunity for violations of the game code in our locality than in some other districts.

Edward Jaynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jaynes, is recovering from a serious injury sustained while working on a logging job in the Macon county creek. Jaynes was attempting to make a cross cut saw from between two saw logs where it had become "pinned" after cutting through the log with his hands. One of the logs suddenly shifted position and pinned Jaynes arm under the blade of the saw by its weight. One of the saw blades pierced his arms and severed a large artery.

Doctors were sent to his assistance and removed the log. Efforts were made to staunch the flow of blood. He was brought to Jerseyville to the office of H. R. Gledhill, M.D., from the loss of blood. It was about forty minutes from the time he was caught under the saw blade until he was assisted into the physician's office here.

When all the times were inside the tree trunk home, wee Duncy cried. "What a dandy place you have, and all built in a tree."

"We've seen no trees as big as this tree, it's a sight to see," the tiny person replied. "Look around and see what there's to see."

"I'm going to start to cook a meal. Think how much better we'll all feel when we have eaten all we can. Then we will snooze a bit."

"I eat and sleep and eat some more. When I'm asleep I always snore. When I do that I seem to wake up feeling very fit."

"My goodness, that's just what I do," Duncy said. "I can out-snore you!"

"Well, see," replied the tiny person. "You'll have to snore real loud."

He then went to his kitchen and exclaimed, "It's full of food that's grand. I guess I'll cook a lot of eggs to feed this hungry crowd."

"Oh," Duncy cried. "This will be fun. I like my eggs too well done. Say, here's your snore, little Imp, and also your cook's hat."

"Please put them on. I know you'll look just like a high-class hotel cook. The Imp dressed up and then he said, "What do you think of that?"

"It's great," said Duncy. "Now, let me help cook. I'm handy as can be." "Hand me the eggs," the Imp replied. "I'll break them in the pan."

"And then, to fry them up real slick. I'll do a funny little trick. At least I'm going to try it, and I'll do the best I can."

One egg began to snap and crack. The Imp then shouted, "Please stand back!" And then he grabbed the frying pan and jerked it in the air.

The egg flipped up and turned around and shortly landed, safe and sound. "I thought you'd drop it," Duncy said. "That gave me quite a scare!"

A. D. HERMANN IS SPEAKER AT LAWN SERVICE SUNDAY

"Idleness is the great destroyer—in many respects far greater than war," said A. D. Hermann in his address Sunday night at the Sunday evening lawn service held on Grace church lawn. "For a broken spirit with lost faith, lost confidence, lost character, lost morale, is far worse than the loss of wealth or even a broken body. Material needs—food, clothing, shelter—make a most foreful appeal to our sympathies and we are prone to feel that in satisfying them we are doing all that should be expected of us. But that is not enough said Newton D. Baker, chairman of the National Welfare and Relief Mobilization Committee. We must build a bulwark against character starvation," Mr. Baker said. If this is neglected who can estimate the cost to the coming generation and to our nation in the years to come.

"The world today is depriving youth of its opportunity for service. The thousands who have been graduating these past few weeks, filled with high ideals and aspirations are finding it impossible to secure employment. Unless they are given some definite and worthwhile activity many of them will soon join the hundreds of thousands drifting about the country, from city to city, unemployed—just getting by."

The service last night was in charge of the Young Men's Christian Association. C. Ray Grun, the president of the "Y" presiding.

The scripture lesson, read by Billy Jean Curtis of the Gra-Y club, told of the early boyhood and all-round development of Jesus. James F. Fox, former president of the Hi-Y offered the evening prayer and led the singing. A vocal solo, "Teach Me, O Lord" was offered by Eleanor Pearson of the Tri-Y with Miss Miriam Havig-Goldy.

The Y.M.C.A. board of directors acted as ushers.

A team consisting of Rogers Wolman, Albert Cully and A. D. Hermann presented the subject of the evening, "Youth and Life." The two young men are leaders in the Young Men's club and other Y. M. S. A. activities.

The fully rounded development was the theme of Mr. Wolman's presentation, coupled with the plea that adults recognize the fact that youth is looking to them for the example and are being influenced in their lives and conduct by what they see transpiring about them, rather than by preaching and platitudes.

Mr. Cully had as his thought, "Friendship and Service. True friendships are not attained as the result of cold calculations," he said, "but are the growth of contacts and service to one another. We do not think of real friendship from the standpoint of what we can get out of it, but rather are looking for opportunities for service to our friends. Our service is to have a better understanding of ways in which we may be of greater use."

OUT OF BOUNDS

By HELEN WELSHIMER

YOUR garden isn't well-behaved. Your flowers haven't manners. Defiant flags run anywhere. To wave excited banners.

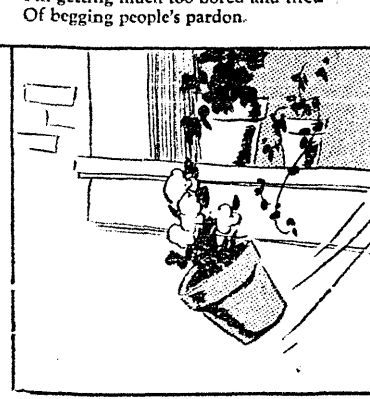

STRAY pansies hide beneath slim leaves. And roses climb all over. The trellises and window sills. And dandelions and clover.

GO tumbling on bush-bordered lawns. The patchwork's nice and crazy. Most any place you look you'll see. A hazy hint of daisy.

MY garden spot is orderly. . . . The landlord has allotted. A window ledge designed to hold Six tulips, nicely potted.

YOUR flowers' pranks are innocent. Mine have a dreadful habit. Each crook picks out a head to hit. Before my hand can grab it.

IT'S scattered some crosspatch's hat. . . . I'm giving up my garden. I'm getting much too bored and tired. Of begging people's pardon.

SEINE OUT FISH FROM DITCHES IN JERSEY COUNTY

Jerseyville, June 17. — The big ditches in the Nutwood Levee District will be seined in the near future and all the gars removed from the waters. The ditches are just inside the levee which was enlarged last year by the federal government as a part of the flood control measures.

The Illinois river was out of its banks several times this spring, when the water was in this stage, the fish in large numbers swarmed into drainage ditches and were left there by the receding of the waters. The main ditch extends for something more than seven miles and is from twenty to fifty feet in depth.

Editor Joseph M. Page has obtained permission to have this body of water seined for the removal of the gars which are devouring the fish and their spawn. The gars will be removed under the direction of Deputy Game Warden Thomas C. Cummings of Jerseyville.

All of the game fish, bass, crappie, sunfish and catfish will be returned to the water. The buffalo and carp will be removed and sold by the parties doing the seining. The compensation of the seiners will be derived from the sale of the buffalo and carp.

No fishing with nets or seines will be allowed in this district after the removal of the gars, buffalo and carp. According to experienced fishermen, the carp are quite destructive of the spawn of the other fish, being a hampering influence in the Illinois river to the propagation of the various species of native game fish. Fishing will be strictly limited to the hook and line system.

Alumni Officers
At the annual meeting of the Alumni association of the Jerseyville High school, Dr. H. E. Glodhill was re-elected to the post of president and Miss Minnie Brockman was again elected to the office of secretary-treasurer which she has held for a number of years.

Miss Celest Miller, the honor graduate of the 1932 class, and Attorney J. Russell Schwarz were elected to the board of directors to succeed T. W. Kirby, Jr. and Truman Yocum whose terms expired this year. Miss Helen Utz was re-elected as a member of the board.

The holdover directors are: L. H. Brockman, Kenneth Neely, Jett O. Sunderland, Miss Florence Warren, Miss Helen Cory and Miss Kathryn Snedeker.

Personal Notes
Mr. and Mrs. Almont Lindsay and two children of Freeport, Illinois, are spending several weeks here at the home of Mrs. Lindsay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Springman near Fieldon.

Miss Willa Stephenson left Saturday for Chicago where she will spend the summer months with her sister, Miss Martha Stephenson.

C. M. Hanes and sons, Robert and Ellsworth Stelle, left Saturday for Chicago where they will remain until Wednesday and attend the Century of Progress exposition.

Mrs. Leah Watts and Junior Updike returned Monday from Elmhurst.

Reach for a Lucky

It's always Luckies Please!

A man's cigarette? Well—here's why I enjoy Luckies

Somewhat, I have always felt that it takes a really fine cigarette to please a man. And since many of the men whose judgment I value smoke Luckies... I reach for a Lucky, too. True, I enjoy Luckies' fine tobacco quality and their delicious mildness. But my real reason is perhaps a trifle feminine. Men may not appreciate this as much as a sensitive woman—but I'm particularly grateful to "Toasting" for that comforting assurance of purity. I've talked to many women about this—remember, a cigarette becomes an intimate thing with us, we place it between our lips. And so, perhaps, because I am a woman this is my woman's reason for always saying "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

DODGERS BEAT CARDINALS 6-5

Brooklyn, June 19.—(AP)—Johnny Frederick's single to right, with one out in the ninth, drove Jimmy Jordan across the plate and culminated the Dodgers' upstart battle in their 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today.

The Dodgers scored twice in the third, when Danny Taylor hit a home run on the heels of a single by Thompson, and then tied the score with a hard ground out of the infield.

The Cardinals made four errors and Schumacher gave four bases on balls but the 21-year-old St. Lawrence college graduate was effective in the pen. Three double plays also helped him out of as many tight places.

Lefty O'Doul led the Giants attack with three of their seven hits. The victory also increased the number of consecutive games in which the position has not scored on the Giants to 26.

Chicago, June 19.—(AP)—The American League was reduced to one-half a game today as the Chicago White Sox humbled the world champions and their ace pitcher, Lefty Gomez, 4 to 3 while the second-place Senators were trimming the Browns.

Five solid hits off the Yanks' southpaw in the fourth inning scored all of the Pale Hose runs and when they started out as if to repeat the homecoming in the fifth, Danny MacFayden was rushed to the mound.

Lou Gehrig put the Yankees back in a threatening position in the eighth with his 16th home run of the season. hit into the lower deck of the right center pavilion with Ben Chapman on base, but the veteran Red Faber came in to pitch the ninth for the tiring Durham and kept the Yanks in line.

Eabe Ruth was out of the Yankee starting lineup for the first time this season, being confined to his bed because of illness, which forced his replacement in the second contest of yesterday's doubleheader.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—The Washington Senators advanced to within a half game of the league-leading Yankees today by winning from the St. Louis Browns, 10 to 4, while the Browns were losing to the White Sox. The Browns dropped back into the cellar as a result of the defeat.

The Senators gathered twenty-two hits, including four homers, off four Senators pitchers.

STATE HOSPITAL WINS TWO GAMES

Defeat White Hall in First Game of Five Innings 11 to 6 and Win Second Game 9 to 3.

White Hall, June 18.—(Special)—Bombarding two White Hall pitchers, the Jacksonville State Hospital team won two games here Sunday afternoon, copping the first five inning tilt with an 11-6 score, and the final seven inning tilt 9 to 3. R. and J. Barnard were the victims of the Hospital batting in both games.

The Redlegs were out in the first game, but capitalized on White Hall errors to chalk up their markers. White Hall misplays helped them some in the final tilt, also, but timely hitting was the biggest advantage.

Out of a swirl of tennis balls and a maze of matches, players entered in the six annual Journal-Courier tennis tournament forged into position to name the semi-finalists today, and set the stage in both the city championship and district singles championship for the semi-final matches Wednesday afternoon. Tentative plans call for the naming of a city champion and district singles champion Thursday afternoon, and the doubles champion and open singles champion Friday afternoon. In both the city and district divisions of the tournament yesterday players moved into the quarter-finals and other matches today will complete the quarter-finals and roll into the semi-final round. Such is the caliber of the players in the tournament that the doubles tournament was virtually tossed overboard for a day last night when it came time to schedule matches for today, and the result is that only one doubles match is listed. One match is scheduled this morning between candidates for the city singles championship, and players from both city and district singles divisions will swing into the quarter-finals this afternoon to bring the brackets into the semi-final round. Favorites Come Through. Favorites moved along the trail of the championship smoothly yesterday, setting the stage for some great bat-les today. Kenneth Chenoweth, a member of the Illinois College tennis team of the past season, moved down to the loss of only one game in two sets. E. Vorbeck, another old timer in these tournaments, won his first match on a forfeit, and then dropped only two games in a whirlwind match against George Graubner, a youngster who appears to have the makings of a real tennis player.

In the lower bracket, Jack Vickery returned to the championship wars by polishing off Bob Thrall with the loss of only two games, and then won over Mahlon Gaumer in straight sets. He will meet his doubles partner, Walter Bradish, who won from Raymond Triebert, 6-2, 6-2, in his first match in these tournaments, won his first match on a forfeit, and then dropped only two games in a whirlwind match against George Graubner, a youngster who appears to have the makings of a real tennis player.

Bob Hamm, the junior runner-up, went into the quarter-finals by winning over Dave Lander in straight sets, and Jack Moriarty, another member of the Illinois College team during the past season, won a three set match from George Hayes, and a two set match from Russell Triebert to reach the quarter-finals where he will play Hamm.

Another Dentist Features. Shades of the days when Dr. F. E. man the Beardmore dentist, who over the district singles players, were recalled here yesterday when another playing dentist, Dr. Vedder, of Carrollton, won his first singles match and prepared to play two more matches today. Dr. Vedder, former Central and Southern Illinois champion, defeated W. Pirtle, of Jacksonville, in his first match yesterday, losing the first set 2-6, and then winning the next two set in a row without losing a game. The Carrollton dentist is reported to be 55 years of age, but apparently is unimpaired of heat or the ability of his opponents.

The main battle of the district singles was fought between players from White Hall, Jacksonville, and Carrollton. Players from these three cities jumped into commanding positions yesterday, with the venerable doctor leading the pack from Carrollton.

Thomas of White Hall, who won from McDonald, of Carrollton, and Keagle, of Roodhouse, went into the quarter final round where he will meet the winner of the Kesinger-Steinkraus match today. Rothern, of Wood River, also joined the favorites by getting into the quarter-finals as a result of his victory over Stanley Mader, of Waverly, in three sets. Lyndon Livingston, a member of the championship doubles team, advanced to the quarter-finals on a default entry in behalf of Dick Allyn, of Waverly, who is still in Chicago.

Doubles Teams Move Along. Jacksonville doubles teams were death to entries from out of the city as the team named in first and second round matches. The Carrollton dentist was unable to withstand the good bonds of the College go without the consent of the owner. I was looking for the bonds of the Avers National Bank. I thought they could get a loan on the bonds but couldn't get it on the stock. The bank knew the bank in the city was not going to give it to the other, and yet, in the face of it, he lets these good, high-grade bonds, owned by this old College, go into the hands of a man who has no endowment fund, given to it for the purpose of giving the students, lets them go and takes the worthless certificates of the Avers National Bank, an insolvent bank, in return for it. Trying to save the money. All right, but why pick on an innocent person? Why not stand before the public and say honestly how you can help us, come and do it, and let it be honest. Why not say that the plan have a little commodity and done that? Why couldn't

The dollar again weak, financial markets pushed ahead with vigor today as it became clear that the government did not intend to interrupt its program of rising prices with any immediate move for currency control or stabilization.

Stocks closed with many net gains of 2 to 9 points. Wheat and corn, the two main staples, were the big proving better than a dollar a bale and other commodities generally lifted. Ag their levels gave additional evidence that traders did not think prices had gone high enough.
The Standard Statistics-Associated Press average for 90 stocks closed at 84.8, up 5.7 net, compared with last Tuesday's high for the year of 81.3. The composite advance, however, was the largest since March 15. Turnover was 5,485,336 shares, a smaller amount of business than has been done in many trading markets.
Speculators devoted much attention to industrial favorites. It was, however, rather hard to find laggards anywhere in the list, for rails and utilities were notably strong.
Case jumped 9 points, American Telephone, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, National Distillers, U. S. Smelting, Western Union and Union Pacific to more than 7. U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Louisville & Nashville, American Can, Westinghouse, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, American & Foreign Power, General Motors, Chrysler, United States Aircraft, Delaware & Hudson, Dome Mines and McIntyre, among others, 3 to around 5.

Chandlerville

Chandlerville, June 16—Two country homes are approaching completion, being modernized and landscaped south of Chandlerville. The recently purchased farm of attorney A. T. Lucas is located just east of Route 10 near the Hach Creek bridge on the old Chandlerville road. The large white house stands on a sweeping lawn set with native trees and backed by the eroded hills encircling Chandlerville. It commands a view of Panther Creek Valley, Chandlerville and the Sangamon lowlands to the north. The house is as yet unoccupied but the new barn and shed are under construction.

The other country home nearing completion is the property of A. C. Johnson of Springfield and is located on the Bear River road a short distance west of Route 73 intersection. The old farm house has been enlarged and fully modernized. Colonial architecture has been strictly adhered to with a gallery porch added to the north side of the house opening upon a large lawn. The new barn and shed are under construction.

Members of the Lutheran Sunday School and Church will hold their annual summer picnic early in July. The picnic grounds are located on the farm of Mr. Charles Amundson, near the intersection of the Bear River road and the Chandlerville road.

BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after four years, finds himself much attracted by 20-year-old ELINOR STAFFORD. Barrett is 35, wealthy and has made a name for himself as an archaeologist. Elinor's mother, LIDA STAFFORD, is beautiful and, because she wants attention for herself, has always forced her daughter to wear unbecoming clothes and keep in the background. Lida schemes constantly to keep in the good graces of her husband's wealthy aunt, Miss ELLA SEXTON, in order to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune.

Barrett's half-sister, MARCIA LADDA, tells him she is terrified to fear her husband will learn of an unfortunate episode in her past. Years before Barrett, she had a brief affair with a young man named VANCE CARLSON, who was a wealthy and successful business man. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. The boy is now 10 years old and his tutor, HAROLD DEWEY, has threatened Barrett with blackmail, she declares, that if her husband learns the truth he will never forgive her.

Barrett goes to visit nine-year-old CARLSON, his ward. He has decided to discharge the tutor and has a new home for the boy. He calls on Miss Ella Sexton who tells him she has not decided to leave her money. Barrett refuses to advise her. As he is leaving he meets Lida Stafford, Elinor's mother. She suspects his interest in Elinor and determines to get a step to it.

Lida goes on to meet VANCE CARLSON, who is in love with her. Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER VII

VANCE went on smoothly, "Carla and Hal Woodbridge want you to go down with them to Miami for a week or so. They spoke of it last night. You will, won't you? Then I'll come later."

"I don't know—Vance." Lida Stafford said the words hesitantly, her eyes averted.

"Please, dearest!" Lida protracted the moment, although she knew she would go if Carla and Hal went down in their plane, "La Paloma." Protracted the moment because Vance, begging, was so really satisfying. This was the adulation and attention she craved.

A waitress wearing a black dress, rather worn and in need of pressing, stood by the table, pencil tapping on her pad, waiting to take their order.

Vance had completely forgotten that they were to have tea. He exclaimed, "Oh—I see—what do you want, Lida?"

"I don't know, dear. Won't you order?"

"English muffins?" He frowned at the card.

"No, they're horrible here." The waitress sniffed at this drawn-out comment. Lida continued, "And they're a bit heavy, too. It's rather late, you know."

"Well, now about this, dry toast and guava jelly?"

"We haven't any guava jelly," the waitress put in wearily.

"Oh—I!" Vance scanned the card again, heavily lidded eyes moving swiftly up and down. His emotional starvation was taking form in his inability to deal with food. And this tea room, while Lida had selected because none of their set ever came there, was a sadly mismanaged place with inefficient service, no selection of foods and mediocre cooking. All this was distasteful to Vance.

"But you see, Vance—" "Darling, I'd have some chance to see you there! I can't stand much more of this sort of thing. I mean it!"

Bessie Throps who had come puffing into the tea room with a string bag full of purchases, including tooth paste, hard water soap, a tag of caramels, handkerchiefs for Jim and a 10-cent vase for the dining room, settled herself at a table and looked around.

She was glad she had come in, although she knew she shouldn't spend even the few pennies her refreshment would cost. She was going to be short again at the end of the month. And she simply couldn't ask Aunt Ella to help her out again. Aunt Ella

"You mustn't worry, Marcia," Barrett insisted. "I'll find him somewhere."

And yet—Lida was beside him, his arm ever so slightly touching hers. Vance set teeth on his lower lip.

A LITTLE later the order was given and the waitress, on twisted high heels, made her way toward the kitchen. Lida had deliberately asked for every variety of tea that she knew she would not find in the place, enjoying the waitress' discomfort.

Lida always found satisfaction in disconcerting others, no matter how unimportant the others might be.

"Sorry it's such a loathesome mess," Vance said as the waitress returned and put the food down before them. Again the girl smiled, plainly indicating her disapproval.

"Lida," Vance went on, "about this Miami trip—I don't want to nag but you will, won't you?"

"I don't know, Vance!" "Please, dearest!"

"But you see, Vance—" "Darling, I'd have some chance to see you there! I can't stand much more of this sort of thing. I mean it!"

Bessie Throps who had come puffing into the tea room with a string bag full of purchases, including tooth paste, hard water soap, a tag of caramels, handkerchiefs for Jim and a 10-cent vase for the dining room, settled herself at a table and looked around.

She was glad she had come in, although she knew she shouldn't spend even the few pennies her refreshment would cost. She was going to be short again at the end of the month. And she simply couldn't ask Aunt Ella to help her out again. Aunt Ella had a fixed idea that Bessie didn't manage well. She scanned the menu, then looked across the room to see her cousin, Lida Stafford, with "that Carter man."

BESSIE, usually so gentle, hated Lida for her slender elegance and her scorn of the things Bessie felt every woman should do to help her husband get along.

Yes, it was Lida and the way she was acting was shameful. No wonder Bentwell drank! Bessie decided to move so that Lida and her escort would not see her.

Aunt Ella ought to know about this but to gain by tale-bearing was so unbecomingly low! Neither Bessie nor her husband, Jim, despite their real need, wanted their sons to have money gained in that way.

She stooped wearily to pick up the string bag and moved. No, Lida had not seen her.

Bessie knew Lida had told Aunt Ella about Bessie's throwing away the mushrooms that had been half gone when delivered. Lida had followed Bessie to her kitchen, raising her beautifully arched brows after a look at Maggie. Maggie never did look quite neat. And the next time at Aunt Ella's Bessie heard, "Mushrooms for a large family. Bessie, are a very expensive form of food. The idea of throwing them out, quite frankly, amazes me!"

She would take hot chocolate with whipped cream and try not to brood upon things, Bessie decided. It didn't do any good but just the same things weren't always fair.

Meantime, in another part of the city, Barrett Colvin had returned home from Miss Ella Sexton's to telephone to Marcia.

"I have only a few moments to talk," Marcia said with nervous haste. "I don't know when Dick will come in. I didn't go to meet him. I've felt miserable all day Barry—?"

"Yes, dear?" "That Dexter person called again!"

"For what purpose?" Barrett almost asked the question.

"I don't know. I wasn't here. He left his card and wrote on it—wait, I have it here somewhere. Here it is, Barry—?"

"Yes, dear?" "He wrote, 'I have a matter of importance to discuss with you. I will come back and wish to see you.' I thought, Barry, that if you knew where he was you could talk to him. Do you know where he is?"

"I don't," Barrett admitted, "but you mustn't worry. I'll find him somewhere and, Marcia, don't have him admitted again. Tell him to come to see me."

"Oh, thank you, darling!" "Never mind about that. I hope you'll feel better soon."

"I will—I do already! All this has worried me so."

"But you're not to worry!" he told her grimly.

ton's to telephone to Marcia.

"I will—I do already! All this has worried me so."

"But you're not to worry!" he told her grimly.

HE left the telephone to stride down the floor, smoking determinedly. When he had a chance to deal with young Dexter he would end this persecution of Marcia. It was outrageous! Dick Radnor, Barrett thought, was the sort who could care deeply enough to forgive a lot. He had seen Dick to chat with him for a short half hour in Dick's office.

On the other hand, he knew Dick's family and their reputation for almost brutal honesty. Whatever happened, Marcia must not be subjected to any more of these disagreeable situations, Barrett decided, until she was in completely good health again.

He ran his hands through his sandy hair. Life could be so damnable difficult!

And what had Lida Stafford meant by saying that her daughter, Elinor, liked the wrong sort of young men? He would have been willing to wager his last cent on that girl. Barrett wished Elinor's mother hadn't said that.

The whole day had been a succession of irritations. First the visit to Gerald and the problem of getting the youngster a new and better sort of home. Then Miss Ella and her miserable suggestion that Barrett should spy on her relatives. Well, he'd quelled that, he felt sure. And now Dexter!

"You're dining in, sir?" Higgins asked from the doorway after his usual hesitant cough.

Of course he was dining in. Barrett realized, but the thought for some reason was irksome. He didn't want to talk with man this evening and he knew to woman who would be agreeable company either. He had a quick flash of Elinor Stafford's face and knew that if he could he would have hurried eagerly to fetch her and settle her across a table from him.

What could her mother have meant by saying Elinor was fond of the wrong sort of young men? The thought bothered him more and more.

"Yes, Higgins," Barrett answered wearily, "I'm dining in—"

LADIES NIGHT IS OBSERVED MONDAY BY CHURCH CLUB

Clyde Black Named Head of Federated Group at Election

"Christian Principles in Industry" was the theme of the address by M. M. Want, local director of the Federal Farm Loan Association, at the annual ladies' night of the Men's Federated Church club, held at the Central Christian church last evening.

"Technological industry today is able to replace by machinery almost all the labor used at the time of the World war," Mr. Want stated. "If you take today into some of the great steel plants, you can see the enormous steel in the mammoth structures, even while the plant is turning out tons upon tons of steel. Likewise in almost every other industry, one man and many machines, perhaps, replace the work of a hundred men of the old industry, or survival of the fittest, a doctrine of unrestrained selfishness, which is bringing the world to disaster unless radical changes are made. In the concentration of industry, ninety per cent of all business is in the hands of one or two corporations, and ninety-five per cent of the people," Mr. Want declared that the answer to the condition of the industrial world today lies in return of a part of the profits earned in business to the workers. "If the workers get a share of the profits," he declared, "it will stop the accumulation as a return upon capital, as he declared, is a major failure of the contemporary system. He concluded his talk with an original proposition that the previous period of the war, when the workers were to grow upon the weak, through all these years."

President L. K. Hallock read his final report for the year upon the activities of the club. In this report he cited the organization of the club ten years ago, with its original purposes. The purposes were to promote Christian fellowship, to study enterprises and to increase activity of members in the advancement of the general religious program. There were sixty-eight charter members of the club, six of whom were present at the meeting last evening.

Preceding the address of the evening was a period of entertainment sponsored by several young people of the community. The Elm City male quartet, consisting of Glen Hellwell, Paul Cooper, Russell Ludwig and Loren DeFrates sang a group of selections, with several solo numbers included in their presentation. Humorous readings by Helen Wright included an Italian dialect reading, "Giuseppe," and a negro reading, "Old Mister Moon."

The officers for the coming year were installed by Rev. W. C. Meeker. The officers for the coming year elected recently, are:

President—Clude Black.
Vice-president—Leon Stewart.
Secretary—A. D. Hermann.
Treasurer—H. F. Treibert.

Dr. H. C. Jagouth of Illinois College was present, speaking briefly to express his greetings to the club and his pleasure at the prospect of becoming a member of Jacksonville's community activities.
